

WHY SHOULD I CARE ABOUT COPYRIGHT?

When those who invest time, knowledge, talent and money in the creation of high quality scholarly publications receive compensation, they can continue to push the boundaries of learning and its dissemination.

The Irish Copyright Licensing Agency (ICLA) is a not-for-profit organisation working on behalf of Ireland's authors, visual creators and publishers to licence the use of their copyright works in return for fair compensation. It is mandatory for any educational establishment wishing to make multiple copies of copyright-protected works to have a licence. ICLA operates the only scheme in Ireland from which such a licence can be obtained.

Higher Educational Licence for copying Class Handouts, Course Packs and VLE

Make the most of your institution's ICLA licence and

- scan or photocopy extracts from books, journals, periodicals and newspapers
 - copy ebooks, digital journals, periodicals and newspapers, and some websites
 - distribute extracts digitally or as print-outs to fellow staff and to students on identified course(s) of study

Copying covered by the licence ✓

Provided the author(s) and publisher are acknowledged as the source:

- up to 10% of a book, OR
 - one complete chapter from a book, including related references and end-notes, OR
 - one article from an issue of a journal, periodical or newspaper, OR
 - a short story or poem not exceeding 10 pages in length from an anthology, OR
 - the equivalent amount from a digital publication organised in a non-traditional manner
 - complete images from a published work for use on a single course or course module and made available only to the students and teaching staff on that course.

NB: Two or more different courses can copy from the same publication without it being an infringement provided each does not individually exceed the limits and/or include the same students.

Copying NOT covered by the licence ✗

- all items on the list of Excluded Categories and Works (see www.icla.ie)
 - printed music, including the words (unless a separate licence has been obtained from ICLA)
 - maps and charts
 - workcards or assignment sheets
 - 'copy permitted' publications
 - 'grey literature' (leaflets and other publications without an ISBN or ISSN)
 - the posting of material to the Internet, or World Wide Web
 - copying which substitutes for the purchase of original licensed material including substituting for buying a textbook.
